FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 24, 2017 | Houston, TX

SMART, SEXY AND ENTERTAINING!

“A heartwarming and sometimes heartbreaking story that takes the reader on an emotional ride.”

HOUSTON, TX — Local author and graphic designer Tracie Momie of Houston, will release her latest novel “An Emotional Appeal” on May 1, 2017. She kicked off the release with a Book Brunch on April 22nd at Cyclone Anaya’s in Rice Village. This is the third book for Momie, a writer and freelance graphic designer. This book focuses on the nuances of human relationships—romantic, familial and friendships.

The novel is set in Momie’s hometown of Houston, TX “An Emotional Appeal” is a contemporary love story: Regina Valentine is at the top of her game as a defense attorney for a prestigious Houston law firm. Benjamin Fontaine is the latest hot shot associate at the District Attorney's office.

They are two of the city's top lawyers but both are haunted by tragic events in their pasts. Will these courtroom rivals trust each other enough for a chance at love or will a high profile case end their relationship before it has a chance to get started?

Tracie Momie is the also the author of the novels, “What Was Missing” and “Nothing I Can Say” as well as the Amazon digital short story, “Prelude to Forever”. She is available for interviews and appearances. For booking presentations, media appearances, interviews, and/or book-signings contact tracie.momie@gmail.com
